AHEAD OF THE MAIL.

[FROM INDIAN PAPERS.]

LADY ASTOR'S DRINK BILL.

LONDON, November 23rd.
The first prosecution under Lady Astor's Drink Act took place at Abberstone, where a number of youths, 17 years old, were fined 5s. each, for representing themselves to be 18 years old for the purpose of obtaining intoxicants.

WOMEN'S SUCCESS IN LAW.

LONDON, November 23rd.
Women obtained five first classes and eight second classes in the Bar examinations, including Baroness Clifton, who obtained a first class in Criminal Law and a second class in Constitutional Law.

The highest distinction gained by a woman was a first class in the final examination, which carries with it the much-prized Certificate of Honour.

AN INTERESTING LEGAL DECISION.

LONDON, November 23rd.
An important decision has been given in the High Court that window-seats from which processions can be viewed are liable to the Entertainment Tax.

The case arose on an appeal by the Crown against the decision of the Preston (Lancashire) Justices, who refused an order of penalties against a publican who let his window on the occasion of a procession.

Giving judgment, Mr. Justice Salter pointed out that in future the question would have to be determined in each case whether the spectacle witnessed was really an entertainment, and, if so, tax would be payable.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE.

LONDON, November 23rd.

The determination to oppose any handing over to the doctors of the sum of £5,500,000 from the contributions subscribed by insured people was voiced at a meeting of the Executive of Approved Societies held under the Insurance Acts to decide upon the attitude to be adopted in the face of the Health Minister's new offer to the Panel Doctors.

Sir Thomas Neill said, that one would have thought that they were living in Russia, for the Health Minister's proposal meant that Parliament would go back on its pledge to compulsorily insure persons. The allegation that the Approved Societies wanted to dominate the medical service was, he said, a bogey which had been successfully used to produce resignations. They had no fight with the doctors; their fight was with the Ministry. The matter would be thrashed out in the House of Commons, which, when it knew the facts, would not be a party to an outrage upon the insured people of the country.

Mr. J. Falconer, M.P., said that there was a conspiracy to rob the sick of what really belonged to them.

Resolutions bearing out the views expressed in the speeches were adopted with acclamation.

The Secretary of the joint Committee of Approved Societies states that the Societies will intervene against the Government in the forthcoming election, as Sir William Johnson-Hicks, was the first Minister of Health who had ever thought of despoiling the workers of their insurance contributions.

FUNDS FOR LONDON HOSPITAL.

LONDON, November 23rd.

In the course of a financial appeal on behalf of the London Hospital, Lord Knutsford reveals a remarkable case of generosity, explaining that an anonymous philanthropist, who was "in no wise a very rich man," had offered to duplicate every gift made to the hospital before January 1st, up to £50,000.

GREAT BRITAIN'S POST-WAR FLEET.

LONDON, November 23rd.

The improvement effected in fighting efficiency, notwithstanding the reduction of units, is the subject of comment by naval experts on the occasion of the Dominion delegates' attendance at the Naval review at Spithead on Saturday.

It is pointed out that the whole 1914 fleet has disappeared, except for half a dozen battleships serving in the Mediterranean, and whereas in pre-war days the Navy included no oil-burners, there is now not a single coal-burner in home waters. Again, apart from the advent of guns of a calibre previously not dreamed of, gunnery methods have generally been revolutionized.

The Daily News Naval correspondent declares that ship for ship, the present fleet is twice as formidable as before the war, that the range and accuracy of its shooting has been doubled, that the destructive power of its shells, torpedoes and mines have been increased beyond calculation, and that the submarine flotilla embodies remarkable developments.

CROYDON AIR STATION.

LONDON, November 23rd.

Simultaneously with far-reaching electrification improvements being carried out on the southern railways, the Air Ministry is embarking upon a scheme for making Croydon the largest air station in the world, involving the construction of a railway station on the aerodrome, the demolition of fences, plantations, and hundreds of acres of farmland, the erection of steel and concrete hangars, warehouses, Customs sheds, and a new hotel to accommodate air passengers.

Europe is like Nehemiah, rebuilding its shattered battlements with the trowel in one hand and a sword in the other.—Mr. Lloyd George.

The slave system has been discredited, the feudal system is out of date, and the present wage system must follow.—The Bishop of Woolwich.

FIFTY MILLIONS FOR UN-EMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

BRITAIN'S NEW WINTER SCHEMES.

Sir Montague Barlow, M.P., Minister of Labour, speaking on October 18th at a luncheon of the Livery Committee of the Worshipful Company of Stationers at Stationers' Hall, announced that new expenditure amounting to not less than fifty millions had been undertaken or initiated by the Government to relieve unemployment. It might prove to work out at a considerably higher figure. These schemes, he explained, did not involve any interference with the financial policy hitherto pursued by the Government.

Giving dates of the new expenditure, Sir Montague included:
Road and bridge programme, £14,000,000.
Viscount St. David's Unemployment Grants Committee (additional), £10,000,000.
Trade facilities, £12,000,000.
Railway companies (approximately only, but probably not less than £10,000,000).
£15,000,000.

Most of this vast expenditure would go for the promotion of trade along normal lines, with the object of securing that the ordinary products were made at ordinary workshops and at ordinary rates of pay. He thought this was the right policy, and one which would do more than any relief work of the ordinary old-fashioned kind. Though they could not absorb the whole, or anything like the whole, of the unemployed, they could, at any rate, do much to alleviate the present distress.

With regard to the efforts made by the railway and other private companies, these contemplated the expenditure of not less than £10,000,000. The major portion of this work was being put in hand forthwith.

The Minister of Labour added that he was not giving the Government's programme in full detail. There were other proposals which had already matured or were in process of maturing. All were being pressed on, and he hoped the Premier or himself might be able very shortly to present all these proposals in a more complete and concrete form.

GERMANY'S NEW CURRENCY.

DETAILS OF THE PLAN.

Particulars have been issued in Germany of the new scheme of currency reform by which the Berlin Government hopes to remedy the appalling financial situation created by the virtual destruction of the paper mark as a medium of circulation. A note called the "Rentenmark" and a bank for its issue, the "Rentenbank," are to be created, and the issue is to be backed by first mortgage on all German landed property and first charge Debentures on industry, trade, and banks.

The Government anticipates that the new currency, which will offer a maximum of security, will be accepted with the utmost confidence. It especially hopes that the farmers will be willing to exchange their produce for the "Rentenmark," and thereby help to solve the food supply question in the urban areas, where the position is becoming extremely strained.

HONGKONG WEEKLY SHARE REPORT.

Messrs. Benjamin and Potts, in their weekly share report, say:-
A fair volume of business has been transacted during the week under review chiefly on Settlement account, but with the exception of Investment stocks, which continue firm, prices generally speaking have shown a tendency to weaken.

Shanghai is suffering from tight money and the market there is in the same stagnant condition as last reported.
Banks.—Hongkong and Shanghai Banks have developed weakness and sales have been made down to $1,050. The latest called quotation from London is £124 (Middle).

Marine and Fire Insurances.—Unions have changed hands at $236/237. Hongkong Fire has been done at the improved price of $207. There are buyers of Cantons at $270, North Chinas at $15, 140 and China Fires at $135.

Shipping.—Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboats have been dealt in at $46. Star Ferries have been negotiated at $60, but close easier.

Refineries.—China Sugars have been placed forward on the basis of $233. Malabons have ruled weak and they have been dealt in at $55.

Oils and Mining.—Langkats have declined to $15. 31. Tronols are required for at $6/- and probably a little more would be paid. Railways are in request at $4/- and Ural Caspians at $11/-.
Electric Companies.—Hongkong Trams were hooked at $24, but have since receded to $24. Hongkong Electric has come to business at $31. China Lights are unchanged at $14.10 and $13.95 for the Old and New shares respectively.

Docks, Wharves and Godowns.—Hongkong and Whampoa Docks close steady at $151. Shanghai Docks have fallen away to $12. Hongkong and Kowloon Wharves at $125, New Engineerings at $15. 730 and Hongkew Wharves at $15. 190 continue neglected.

Lands, Hotels and Buildings.—Hongkong Lands show a considerable drop, and business was done as low as $84, but there has since been some recovery and buyers prevail at $86. The Interim dividend of 75 cents and 60 cents having been just paid, for Hongkong Hotels, in respect of the Old and New shares, the latter now rank equally with the former for future dividends. This stock has kept comparatively quiet and at the time of writing are obtainable at $25. Kowloon Lands have been bought at $80 and continue in request.

Cotton Mills.—Ewos have had a setback to $12. Shanghai Cottons and Orientals continue very flat and can be had below the quoted rates.

Miscellaneous.—China Providents after being offered at $23 came into strong demand, and deals have been made in them up to $24. Green Island Cements are lower and have been put through at $24. Watson's have been taken off the market at $21 and Hongkong Ropes at $10. Dairy Farms at $22, Union Waterboats at $16 and Wm. Powells at $21 are saleable at quotations.

Forward Settlement Days.—27th Nov. (Tuesday), and 29th Dec. (Thursday), 1923.
Exchange.—The T.T. selling rate on London to-day is 2/3 and on Shanghai 60 1/2.

EMPIRE SHIPPING PROBLEMS.

WORK OF THE IMPERIAL SHIPPING COMMITTEE.

The following extracts are taken from a speech delivered at the Imperial Economic Conference by Sir Halford Mackinder, Chairman of the Imperial Shipping Committee:—

BILLS OF LADING.
The first great complaint that came before us was reported on to the last Imperial Conference; but, inasmuch as there have been further developments since that time, and since developments are in progress at this moment in regard to it, I must mention it very shortly, and that is the question of shipowners' liability under bills of lading. That, of course, was a very old question, but it became acute after the war on account of the prevalence of pilferage. No one quite knew who was to blame; every one said the other man. If you went to a shipowner, he said the pilferage is at the docks; if you went to the docks, they said it is on the railway. Wherever you went it was elusive, and, therefore, the question of the shipowners' liability under bills of lading became urgent.

We went to work, and we determined in the end unanimously to recommend that the shipowner should not be free to exempt himself out of his liability, and we recommended that throughout the Empire the Canadian Act should be accepted as the model and that we should try to have a similar condition of affairs right through the Empire. I may say, incidentally, that we sounded shipping interests outside. We appealed to their patriotism. Naturally, they did not much like the change that we proposed, but those interests that we consulted agreed that they would not oppose provided there were certain safeguards inserted, and we arrived at a unanimous compromise on that subject. Our Report was published, having been sent to the various Prime Ministers, and was accepted by the last Imperial Conference.

THE HAGUE RULES.
The whole Empire, therefore, by the resolution at that Conference, undertook to legislate in the same direction, but immediately after that Conference a movement took place to internationalize the practice which was to be established within the Empire. The Hague Rules were passed, and maritime countries were asked to legislate to make the Hague Rules the law in their several jurisdictions. Further discussions took place, and the Hague Rules were modified, and on behalf of my colleagues on the Imperial Shipping Committee, I have to say that we considered the modified rules, and, if our opinion is desired, we think that they carry out the intention of the Report, which was presented by us unanimously and endorsed by the last Imperial Conference.

There is this further fact, that the shipowners and shippers, as represented by their different conferences and associations, are agreed in international conferences on this matter, with very few exceptions. Only within the last few days a meeting has been held, I think it was in Brussels, and I understand that the differences are now so small that it is almost certain that, on the basis of the amended Hague Rules, you will be able to get a world-wide common practice in this matter of vital importance to the commercial world. A Bill has been introduced into the House of Lords here, was referred to a Joint Committee of the two Houses, has been unanimously endorsed by that Joint Committee, and this Conference is willing to accept as equivalent to what was adopted at the last Conference. The Hague Rules as now modified and as embodied in the Bill before the British Parliament, then I imagine that Bill will be pressed forward. The hope of those of us who have been busy with it for the last three years is that it may now be accepted as a model Bill, and that we may see legislation with a view to uniformity in the Empire, we hope by way of an example to other nations, and in this end throughout the world.

DEFERRED REBATES.
The next great question that came before us had regard to deferred rebates—again an old stagger. As in the case of the bill of lading question, so in the case of deferred rebates, there was a certain sentence in the dispute immediately after the war. That was due to the fact of Government ownership of merchant shipping. The question came before us in the first instance, and mainly, on a representation from the Australian Commonwealth Government. The Australian Government Line could not give rebates—it was forbidden to do so by Commonwealth legislation. The Australian Conference of Shipping Lines stuck tenaciously to its practice of giving rebates on the outward voyage, but, inasmuch as the round voyage is the unit of shipping, that had its repercussion on the homeward trade.

We examined this question, and we presented an interim report and a final report. The interim report dealt with a special and urgent point. The Commonwealth Government Line represented to us that those who shipped with them had on a number of occasions been penalized by the Conference Lines by having their goods tendered for shipment refused, even though the ship had sailed not full—practically refused on the ground of what is technically called disloyalty. That goes beyond merely refusing to pay on the deferred rebate; you boycott a particular shipper because he has shipped with your competitor.

We were able to report to Mr. Hughes, then Prime Minister in Australia, in our interim report that should such a case occur again we would investigate it, and that we had been promised the help of the shipping lines themselves. From that day to this, no such case has been brought to our attention.

NEW ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICIALS.

The personnel of the Administrative Commission of the Diplomatic Quarter has been almost entirely changed, owing to the resignation or departure from Peking of various members. The new Commission is composed of the following five gentlemen, the first three having been nominated by the Diplomatic Body and the other two elected by the inhabitants of the Quarter:—

Mr. H. H. Fox (British Legation), President.
Mr. P. R. Joselyn (American Legation), Delegate in charge of Police and Roads.
Mr. J. Ullens de Schooten (Belgian Legation).
Mr. R. C. Allen (Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation).
Mr. J. H. Berryer (Inspector-General of Customs), Honorary Treasurer.

PRESIDENT TSAO KUN.

Chinese teashop gossip in Peking, says the Far Eastern Times, has lately concentrated on President Tsao Kun's good humour and constant laughing whenever any person at an interview suggests that the general position is serious. It is giving rise to the legend that there is more than a lack of mental grasp of China's difficulties in this demeanour. Foreign observers are less captious. They say that the new President shows an entire lack of pomposity and formality and is indeed the first chief executive to be as democratic as an American. President Tsao Kun, besides being the first man in the Presidential chair to speak pure Pekingese tsu-hua; consequently even foreigners who can only speak a little Chinese find that they can carry on a conversation without an interpreter. They all enjoy the experience and feel perfectly at home from the first word to the last. This is by no means an unimportant political consideration and will probably have a considerable influence, if matters come to a crisis.

SHIPPING ON THE UPPER YANGTSE.

SIX STEAMERS HELD UP.

The pontoon bridge which the northern General Yang Sen threw across the Yangtze at above Wanchow in Szechuan, has been taken down, but during its existence it caused considerable worry to foreign shipping. It now appears that General Yang used the bridge to facilitate his retreat from the Szechuan army. Six foreign steamers on their way up the River to Chungking were held because the military would not open the bridge. Fortunately a Japanese gunboat came along and its demand to be allowed to pass was granted. When the pontoon was drawn aside for that purpose, all the other six steamers dashed through too.

THE SHIPPER'S OPTION.

We were then free to go on to consider the main question of rebates, which are illegal in various portions of the Empire, and which, in the main, affect only the outward trade from this country to other portions of the Empire. The Committee came to the unanimous conclusion that in the case of liners—and this matter does not touch tramp—and quint monopoly was essential to the maintenance of a permanent and healthy service, and that, given the fluid conditions of the ocean and the unity of the ocean, that could only be arrived at by some tie of some description between the shipper who wished to ship parcels at any time by the liners and the owners of the line.

We finally came to the conclusion that in view especially of the nagatory character of the recommendations of the Royal Commission we would recommend the experiment of allowing an option, so that a given trade shipper would have an option of whether they would commit themselves to the liner service which was entering for them by an agreement or by the system of deferred rebates. As showing the present position, I will read a letter which has been addressed to me by Sir Kenneth Anderson, the chairman of the Orient Line, on behalf of the Conference Lines, and Mr. Eva, who is the representative in London of the Commonwealth Line. "We are glad to say that the optional system of rebates or agreement, evolved in the Australian trade as a result of the inquiry by the Imperial Shipping Committee into the rebate system, is working satisfactorily. The form of agreement as originally introduced has already been signed by over eight hundred firms, and now that certain amendments are about to be made to meet the wishes of the Merchants' Association, and the document, subject to these, has been formally approved by them, it may be anticipated that the number of firms adopting the agreement alternative will be increased."

There are about 1,500 firms shipping in this trade, I understand, so that already more than half of them have agreed to abandon the rebates and to accept the agreement, and since a further number are likely now to come in—the amendments have been adopted only within the last few days—I think it probable that at least three-quarters of the trade will have availed themselves of the offer which we induced the two interests to put before them. I hope that the freedom which we obtained will have resulted a settlement, at any rate in that trade, of this long-vested question. I hope that the example may spread through the trade of the Empire generally.

SAIGON RICE MARKET.

Messrs. Wm. G. Hale & Co., Ltd., in their circular dated Saigon, November 10th, say:—During the last fortnight our market has been on the whole very quiet, and though at a time our prices were affected by a sudden rise reported in the Hongkong market, the demand being very poor, they soon returned to their previous level. Except very small business effected for prompt shipments with Japan and Cuba, no purchases to speak of have transpired. Market closes easier, but prices have not yet receded to any great extent though a decline is expected shortly as the early rice will soon be available.

New Crop.—It is reported that the prospects are particularly bright in the districts of Baclieu, Gocong, Mytho, Bentre and Tauxan, which give the very best qualities of rice. In all other districts prospects are very favourable and a very good upturn may be anticipated if the fine weather continues.

YESTERDAY'S MILITARY WEDDING.

CROSS-DENISON.

In the wedding at the St. John's Cathedral, yesterday afternoon of Captain Evan Cameron Cross (only son of the late Mr. W. E. Cross of Risedale and Mrs. Cross of Edinburgh) and Miss Muriel Yvonne Denison, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Denison, well-known residents of long standing in the Colony, a wide local interest was manifested. The bridegroom is Company Officer of the 2nd King's Own (Liverpool) Regiment and is popular in both military and naval circles of Hongkong. He is at present acting as A.D.C. to H.E. the Governor (Sir R. E. Stubbs, K.C.M.G.). The bride also has many friends in the Colony, where she was born.

The wedding ceremony in the Cathedral was attended by large numbers of people, the body of the Cathedral being comfortably filled. All three Services—the Navy, the Military and the Civil Service—were strongly represented. H.E. the Governor was present and signed the Register at the conclusion of the ceremony. Major-General Sir John Fowler, K.C.M.G., D.S.O., General Officer Commanding the Troops in China, and Commodore H. E. Grace, R.N., in charge of the Dockyard, were also present. The presence of large numbers of W.O.'s, N.C.O.'s and men of the bridegroom's Regiment at the ceremony bore testimony to his popularity.

The choir stalls of the Cathedral were adorned with many beautiful clusters of white flowers. The service was made as regimental as possible. The music of the King's Regimental Band was substituted for the fine old organ, and the Regimental Chaplain (the Rev. R. J. Northcott) conducted the service, whilst the Chaplain of the Cathedral (the Rev. Copley Joyce) and the Bishop of the Diocese (Dr. Duffry) were amongst the guests in the body of the Cathedral.

As the bride entered the Church on the arm of her father the congregation rose and sang the hymn "Love Divine, all Love Excelling." This was later followed by the singing of the psalm "God be merciful unto us"; and just before the married couple entered the vestry to sign the register the favourite wedding hymn "O Perfect Love" was sung by the congregation.

The bride's dress was of white georgette, headed with silver. Her train was of Brussels lace and her veil of white tulle. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaids were Miss Beryl Arthur and Miss Janet King, who wore dresses of white georgette; their hair was adorned with wreaths of pink roses and they carried baskets of pink roses tied with silver ribbon. The bridegroom, who was in khaki service uniform, was attended by Lieut. C. P. Moore, M.C., of the King's Regiment, as "best man."

The Band played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the bridal party returned from the vestry after signing the register.

On leaving the Cathedral for the reception at Government House, the bride and bridegroom had to pass under an arch of crossed swords formed by the bridegroom's brother officers and other military and naval officers, some sixteen Naval officers and over 20 Military officers forming the Guard of Honour. His Excellency formed part of the bridal party as it left the Church, following the little trainbearers in company with Mrs. Denison, the bride's mother.

THE JAPANESE TRAINING SQUADRON.

ARRIVAL YESTERDAY.

Punctually at 9 a.m. yesterday the Japanese Naval Training Squadron, consisting of the Yamato, Fukuyo and Asama, arrived in port to the usual exchange of salutes. The training squadron is in charge of Vice-Admiral Saito, C.B., and there are on board some 388 cadets. Soon after the arrival of the vessels the Commodore paid a visit to the Japanese Admiral's flagship to welcome the squadron. Later the General Officer Commanding the Troops in China (Major-General Sir John Fowler, K.C.M.G.) made an official call. At 10.15 a.m. the Admiral accompanied by his staff landed at Murray Pier, a Guard of Honour from the King's Regiment being drawn up in front of the pier, where Capt. Neville, A.D.C. to H.E. the Governor met Admiral Saito who, after inspecting the Guard of Honour, motored to Government House and called upon H.E. the Governor. Admiral Saito also returned the calls of the G.O.C. and the Commodore. Later in the morning H.E. the Governor, accompanied by Capt. Neville, left in a naval pinasse to visit Admiral Saito on his flagship the Yamato.

A programme of sightseeing for the cadets has been arranged through the Naval Authorities and the Chamber of Commerce. These arrangements have already been published in the Daily Press.

SAVAGE ATTACK.

VISITOR ATTACKS HIS HOST'S FAMILY.

A friend is said to have attacked his host, a Chinese ship's steward, and the steward's family at No. 164, Temple Street, Yau-mat, on Thursday night. An axe was used and all the family (husband, wife and daughter) had to be removed to hospital.

The visitor is believed to have called early in the evening and asked for a bed. The steward obliged. He was awakened later to find himself being attacked. He managed to escape on to the verandah where he called "Save Life." The assailant then left the premises. The steward afterwards found that his wife and family had been attacked as well. The Police have since procured an arrest and that man was brought before Mr. J. R. Wood yesterday morning and charged. It was mentioned in Court that one or more of those attacked were not expected to live and that dying depositions had been taken.

The object of the assailant is said to have been robbery.

UNION CHURCH, KOWLOON.

NEW MINISTER WELCOMED.

HAPPY ANGRUES OF THE NEW VENTURE.

The minister of Union Church, Kowloon (that is to be)—the Rev. J. Horace Johnston, B.A.—was welcomed last night by a large assembly in Union Church Lecture Hall, and the proceedings gave every justification for the belief that extension of religious activity on Kowloon side will soon be manifested, even if "the beautiful and commodious Kowloon Church," in which Mr. Macdonald regretted that last night's meeting was not held, still continues to be a castle in the air.

Rarely has so large a social gathering been seen at Union Church. The regular supporters on Sundays were present in force—both the "onceers" and the "twiceers," the "now-and-again's" were recognised by many and the "never-at-alls" hazened it out as best they might. It was, as Mr. Johnston would say, a "great" day. The President of the St. Andrew's Society (Mr. R. Sutherland) and the Secretary (Mr. D. K. Blair) were present to take part in the welcome; in which group of the foregoing category they come it is not for the present writer to say.

After a brief concert to which Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Collett and Mr. McLeod contributed, "with great acceptance" seems to be the appropriate phrase, the welcome already conveyed individually was conveyed in a more public manner.

Mr. Macdonald, in order perhaps to heighten the contrast when he came to the lighter portions of his speech, began his speech rather, in the vein of the soldiers who, a few years ago, when times were hard and difficulties well nigh overwhelming, were wont to ask one another, "Bill, what about a moan?" Mr. Macdonald travelled once more over well-trodden ground and explained how it is that there is no Union Church, yet, in Kowloon. Tennis courts "and other necessary purposes" come before Church needs—unless the tennis court happens to belong to Union Church and then it is taken away in spite of all appeals to ecclesiastical and civil authority.

Having dealt with the first part of his text—Kowloon—Mr. Macdonald came to the second part—Mr. Johnston—and on this topic he put the assembly in possession, in happy phrase, of some of the incidents in Mr. Johnston's career, from the day when he was born "in Glasgow, whence he was fortunately removed by his parents before he was old enough to realise how great a calamity had befallen him"—(laughter.) Mr. Macdonald assured Mr. Johnston of the earnest and prayerful support of himself and all connected with Union Church, and concluded by extending the right hand of fellowship to the new minister, amidst hearty applause.

Mr. J. L. McPherson, in a neat and appropriate speech, conveyed the welcome of the rank and file to Mr. Johnston, speaking also on behalf of Kowloon, having just learned that Cheung Chau, where he resides, is in Kowloon parish—(laughter)—and therefore within Mr. Johnston's sphere of influence.

Then Mr. Johnston addressed the gathering. He explained that, although he had only just come to China, his connection with that country went back 70 years—(laughter.) Mr. Johnston made this claim good by stating that his father came as a missionary to China in 1854, and two of his sisters had long worked in the mission field at Amoy. He himself, in a sense, was destined for China. His parents, like all good Scots folk, hoped their son would be a missionary. His first name was given him after his missionary father and for his second name they proposed to call him "Shin-ai" (China, in case any reader does not know it, and loses the joke). However, they relented—(laughter)—and named him after the famous Dr. Bonar.

Mr. Johnston hoped for "great days" in Hongkong. He had been in distant parts of the world before this; his first charge was of a district 1,000 square miles in extent in the rolling foothills of the Rocky Mountains, with fine preaching stations which meant long days in the saddle to get from one to the other. He had "great days" there. Afterwards he took temporary duty in the F.M.S. and the Straits Settlement where he had to travel through miles of the most wonderful jungle in the world—on his four horse-power Ford—(laughter and applause.) He had an opportunity of serving his fellowmen, too, in the Great War when one met men face to face and could speak of the things that supremely mattered to men who were about to make the great sacrifice.

DAME ADELAIDE ANDERSON.

VISITING HONGKONG.

A notable visitor to Hongkong at the present time is Dame Adelaide Anderson, C.B.E., M.A., who was H.M.'s Principal Lady Inspector of Factories at the Home Office from 1897 to 1921. Dame Anderson was educated at Queen's College, Harley Street, and Girton College, Cambridge, and also studied in Germany and France. Her scholastic records include Moral Sciences Tripos, Cambridge, 1887; and Gamble Gold Medal, Girton College 1893. She was Lecturer to the Women's Co-operative Guild, and a Member of the Educational Council of the Co-operative Union, 1889-92, and Clerk to the Royal Commission on Labour, 1892-94. Dame Anderson retired from the post of Lady Inspector of Factories in August 1921, when she was made a Dame of the British Empire for her great services. Her publications include various articles on Labour questions and Legislation, in the Economic Journal, the Encyclopedia Britannica (Supplement) Verein für Sozial Politik, International Congress on Hygiene and Demography (1903), etc. Dame Anderson is visiting China and Japan on a tour around the world. She reached Hongkong yesterday on the N.Y.K. Tanaka Maru and leaves for Shanghai on the 25th inst. by the Empress of Russia. The tentative programme arranged for her during her stay in Hongkong includes visits to various factories under the guidance of the Rev. H. R. Wells and Captain E. C. Tregillus, and a visit to Canton.

One of the Shanghai papers said when the visit was first announced:—

"This news should have a special significance for China just now, for the Peking Government has recently issued its first factory regulations, and some of the Provincial Assemblies are considering the same course; the Municipal Council is also working on this question, and we understand that the National Christian Council, at its Executive meeting this week, will consider creating a special department under the Church to deal with the industrial problem in China. Miss Anderson's wide experience of the Industrial problem would be of particular help to China at this juncture, since at this moment the three bodies referred to above are all expressing a desire for exact and specialised information as to the possibilities of legislation. Miss Anderson, with her practical knowledge, and deep interest in all the experiments that have been, and are being, made by employers and workers, in addition to her technical knowledge of industrial legislation, would seem to be exactly the person that should be called in for consultation."

At the first annual meeting of the National Christian Council the relation of the Chinese Church to the industrial problem was discussed very thoroughly, and a Standing Committee on Social and Industrial Relations was appointed. One of the terms of reference of this Committee is "To consider the question of asking experts on these questions to visit China in the near future. It is interesting to note that on May 19th a cable was sent by the Council to Miss Anderson asking for her help."

An answer can hardly be expected before the middle of June, but because Dame Adelaide has herself in England had to see the struggle for legislation and factory inspection through its pioneer stages, she will have a great understanding of the difficulties that lie before China, and especially the National Christian Council in its endeavour to lead the way towards a better industrial order in this country. There is confidence that this request will appeal to Miss Anderson.

Although Dame Adelaide will be in China at the request of one group, it seems certain that all the groups mentioned in the quotation will be eager to avail themselves of her services.

On the subject of his coming to Hongkong Mr. Johnston aroused a sympathetic cheer when he said that his mother, aged 82, when she heard of the project said: "Capital! it is only five years; we shall soon see you back again." He had heard a good deal about the difficulties of the situation since the question of coming here had been under discussion, but he liked meeting difficulties. Looking to golf for an illustration (and there, by establishing a warm place in the hearts of at least half his audience) Mr. Johnston said his experience in regard to difficulties was patience and the golfer's most priceless maxim, "Don't press hard"—(a variant, apparently, of the still older proverb, "More haste, less speed"). The new minister concluded by accepting very thankfully the assurances of support which Mr. Macdonald had conveyed. The Chairman of the St. Andrew's Society was then prevailed upon to speak. He congratulated Union Church and Kowloon on Mr. Johnston, and promised that if the St. Andrew's Society could do anything to help them out of the difficulty, of a site, the Society would use all its influence. In this connection Mr. Sutherland put in a good word for the Government officials who, he said, had a tremendous task in accommodating the various interests in a rapidly developing Colony. Finally Mrs. Hickling and Mrs. Macdonald, on behalf of the Ladies' Committee of the Church, presented, both ministers with new preaching gowns to mark the auspicious occasion.

CHINA'S NEED OF MONEY FOR EDUCATION.

It is a long time since anything was heard of the proposals to devote the remaining instalments of the Boxer Indemnity to educational purposes. Several countries are now committed to this use of the funds which they are entitled to receive from China under the Protocol signed after the suppression of the Boxer rebellion in 1900. The subject has just been raised in a new form. Among the departments of the Chinese administration which is experiencing that "eternal lack of public pence," which we are accustomed to hear so much about from Peking is the Education Department. Government schools, we read, are being closed. The teachers in the eight higher national educational institutions have not been paid their salaries for nine months, "but they have nevertheless carried on with their lectures." Tradersmen have been dunning the schools for the payment of debts, and now supplies have been stopped, no money being available even to buy coal to heat the class rooms in the prevailing cold weather. This is the burden of the petitions which have been sent to the responsible Ministers on behalf of the higher institutions. The middle and primary schools, it seems, receive a definite proportion of the Hatanen Octroi collections. This does not cover expenses, so that teachers in these schools have been receiving but 70 per cent. of their salaries. It has recently been proposed to reduce salaries by one half, in order that funds may be made available to keep in existence a large number of private schools, and the teaching staff of the Government schools is naturally up in arms against it, as the existing wage is not a living wage. Then there are the so-called "private schools" which are seeking Government help. An effort is being made to secure funds for educational purposes by the release of a portion of the Boxer Indemnity due to Great Britain and Japan; but it is hardly compatible with the ideas of the British and Japanese authorities, we imagine, that the funds from the Boxer Indemnity which they are willing to devote to educational purposes should be devoted to the maintenance of Chinese national schools. Why similar claims are not made on the indemnity instalments due to other Powers is not stated in the reports, which mention only Russia in this connection. The Russian Envoy at present in Peking has been approached by the representatives of the Eight Higher Colleges, and being anxious to do anything to create a favourable impression in China, he addressed a memorandum to the Minister of Foreign Affairs proposing that the Russian share of the Boxer Indemnity be assigned for educational purposes in China. Russia, however, after the Revolution, in a Note to the Chinese Government, formally renounced the Indemnity, so that the Russian Envoy can hardly claim to have a voice at this date in the disposition of the money. From the terms of his letter to the representatives of Higher Educational Institutions, however, it appears that the Note of renunciation is now regarded more or less as a scrap of paper, and that it will be the object of the Envoy to get it guaranteed in the Sino-Russian Agreement he hopes to negotiate that "all the payments of the Boxer Indemnity shall be assigned for educational purposes of the Chinese people." This rather adroitly evades the question as to whether they shall be devoted to the maintenance of the Chinese national colleges and schools. If things go on as they are these institutions in Peking will have ceased to exist long before any agreement is reached to devote the Boxer Indemnity to such a purpose. The "whole staff of the Ministry of Education" has already given notice by advertisement in the Press of the Capital, that owing to the neglect of the Government to provide for education, it is their intention (i.e. the intention of the "whole staff of the Ministry of Education") to send the seals and documents relating to this Ministry to the Cabinet Office. "If the Cabinet refuses to take them over, they will be stored for safe keeping at the Historical Museum. The National Encyclopedia and other valuable old books will also be stored in the Historical Museum. All other properties belonging to the Ministry of Education, such as houses, furniture, books, etc., will be auctioned." We have yet to hear what the Cabinet has to say regarding these intentions. In any case the situation is deplorable. These conditions are not confined to one branch of the administration, but extend to most branches.

In reference to the restoration of the mail service via Siberia the following notification by the Chinese Post Office at Peking is interesting:—"The mail dispatched 12th Siberia from Peking on December 5th should reach the United Kingdom and France on or about Christmas Day and that of December 12th on or about New Year's Day."

Small bancas and rafts replaced motor-cars in many of the streets of Manila when a typhoon brought 12.27 inches of rain in 24 hours. The floods paralysed the railway service, and the typhoon brought down a great number of the telegraph standards and both the telegraph and radio services were suspended except as between nine telegraph stations. Serious damage has been done to crops other than rice, which has benefited by the timely fall of rain.

"The recent Ball in aid of the Navy and Mercantile Marine War Charities resulted, after paying all expenses, in a net collection of $2,839.33 (including the donations from the Chinese gentlemen already acknowledged). The equivalent of this sum in sterling at 2s. 3d. equals £340.15.7, which amount (the local Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. L. M. Whyte, informs us) is being remitted by demand draft on London to the General Secretary of the Navy League for account of the aforementioned War Charities.

The Department of Ceremonies at Peking has issued a notification, stating that, in compliance with the President's wish, there will be no celebration of His Excellency's birthday this year. President Tuan K'un has instructed the Secretariat to draft a telegram to the Governors to the effect that as the affairs of the country are in a disturbed state and the people are suffering from hardships, the Provincial authorities are requested not to leave their posts of their own accord and come to Peking to offer congratulations to the President on the occasion of his birthday.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOHN LENNOX.

A cable was received yesterday by Mr. P. F. Duckworth, of the Hongkong Electric Company, announcing the death of his father-in-law, Mr. John Lennox, who served for over 30 years in the Far East with the well-known firm of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, Ltd. He was known by his many friends in Hongkong as a man of sterling character and his death will be regretted by all who knew him. As a mark of respect the flags were flown at half-mast yesterday on the Company's steamers in port, at the Company's office and at the dockyard. The late Mr. Lennox was about 68 years of age.

The late Mr. John Lennox joined the service of China Navigation Co., Ltd., in 1880 as second engineer of one of their Australian Line steamers. He was promoted to chief engineer shortly afterwards and was appointed to the shore staff as asst. supt. engineer at Shanghai in 1901. He remained at that post until 1909 when he was transferred to Hongkong, remaining here until 1915 when he went Home on leave for a few months. He was sent from Home to supervise the large number of the Company's vessels which were engaged on transport service during the War. Since the War Mr. Lennox has been engaged as supervisor on the construction of new vessels for the Company in Home yards. He paid a visit to the Colony when on leave last Winter to see his married daughter, Mrs. Duckworth, returning to Great Britain in April last. His leave expired about October and he had arranged to retire in Scotland.

Mr. Lennox was a member of the Institution of Engineers and Shipbuilders in Hongkong and during the war served in the Engineers Company of the Defence Corps.

LIUT. PATRICK C. SMITH.

We regret to record the death of Lieut. Patrick C. Smith of the H.M.S. "Tarantula." The deceased officer was taken ill in Canton on Wednesday morning, and as soon as his case had been diagnosed the vessel returned with all speed to Hongkong.

Lieut. Smith was admitted to the Royal Naval Hospital at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, where it was confirmed that he was suffering from cholera. Despite every medical attention, Lieut. Smith died in hospital on Thursday morning at 2 a.m. His remains were interred at Happy Valley the same evening. The H.M.S. "Tarantula" is at present in quarantine at No. 12 buoy.

HOME ELECTION CAMPAIGN.
THREE CORNERED CONTEST IN MOST CONSTITUENCIES.

LONDON, November 22nd.

It is expected that between fourteen hundred and fourteen hundred and fifty candidates will have nominated by Monday.

Five hundred and twenty-two Conservatives have already been formally adopted. The Liberals expect to have four hundred and seventy nominations and Labour, four hundred and twenty. There are about thirty Independents.

EARLIER CABLES.

KEEN PUBLIC INTEREST.

LONDON, November 22nd.

Much applause is forthcoming for speakers of all shades of opinion at well-attended meetings throughout the country.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, at Aberavon, said it was fallacy to talk of Imperial Preference while there was as big a duty against our goods going into the Dominions as to some going on the Continent.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, at Newcastle, denounced a tariff war when the paramount necessity was the establishment of international order founded on goodwill.

Sir Robert Horne, at Glasgow, imagined that the public's belief in the sincerity of Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George was strained when it saw them embracing and singing "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden." When Labour had been in power a week, nobody would want to go to Heaven. (Laughter.)

Sir Walter Runciman, at Brighton, said tariffs would not help the principal industries of shipbuilding, coal and textiles and could in no wise benefit more than 140,000 out of the 1,500,000 unemployed.

VIEWS OF LONDON CONSERVATIVES.

LONDON, November 22nd.

The City of London attitude towards protection was defined by Lord Hunsdon presiding at a crowded meeting of the City Conservative Association, which adopted Sir F. G. Buxbury and Mr. Edward Grenfell as candidates.

Lord Hunsdon said the view of the City was that protection was not a question of principle but of expediency. The City would like protective duties to be considered first with regard to the industries affected, also generally with regard to prevalent conditions. Lord Hunsdon was of opinion that one of the contributory causes of unemployment was the high death duties and super tax.

Sir F. Buxbury declared that Mr. Baldwin's proposals were identical with those of Mr. Lloyd George in 1921.

No Liberal candidature has so far been mentioned for the City of London.

IMPERIAL INSTITUTE.*VIRTUAL DISAPPEARANCE FORESHADOWED.

LONDON, November 22nd.

The virtual disappearance of the Imperial Institute is foreshadowed in the report of the Committee enquiring into its future status in view of the withdrawal of overseas contributions. The report recommends that most of its functions be transferred to other agencies, the Institute being continued only as a clearing-house for intelligence information and be merged with the Mineral Resources Bureau.

LATEST CABLES.

UPKEEP OF RECONSTITUTED INSTITUTE.

LONDON, November 22nd.

The recommendations of the Committee of Enquiry were adopted by the Imperial Economic Conference.

It appears that Great Britain's contribution to the upkeep of the reconstituted Institute will be £20,000 yearly for 5 years, the Governments of the Dominions, India and the Colonies contributing together £20,000.

On November 2nd the Imperial Economic Conference passed a resolution approving the establishment of a reconstituted Imperial Institute, proposing specified annual contributions for its upkeep from the Dominions and India, and recommending the addition of a representative of the Treasury to the new administration of the Institute.]

LATEST CABLES.

SEPARATISTS ABANDON DIRECT ACTION.
FIGHT TO BE SHIFTED TO DIPLOMATIC FIELD.

Dusseldorf, November 22nd.

It is understood that the Separatist leaders have decided not to try to seize any more cities but to disband the bulk of their troops and shift the fight to the diplomatic field.

ALLEGED BELGIAN SPY IN HOLLAND.*FOUR DUTCH OFFICERS ARRESTED.

LONDON, November 22nd.

Advices from The Hague report the arrest of a Belgian at Bar-le-Duc, allegedly in the act of buying secret military plans from a Dutch officer. This led to the arrest of four Dutch officers and the discovery of an extensive plot.

WIRELESS WAVES TO STOP MOTOR-CARS.*FRENCH ENGINEER DISCOVERS GERMAN SECRET.

PARIS, November 22nd.

It is reported that a French engineer has succeeded in doing what has already been claimed for a German electrician, namely, stopping the engine of a motor-car by waves projected from a distance.

He declares that it will be equally possible to stop aircraft in full flight. An Air Ministry official admits that experiments carried out in Germany and France were successful in regard to motor-cars at short distances. He is of the opinion, however, that means will be found for protecting and isolating the magnets.

GERMANY'S FINANCIAL CAPACITY.*DANGER OF "BLEEDING TO DEATH."

BERLIN, November 22nd.

A large force of police guarded every entrance to the Reichstag on the resumption of the debate of November 20th. Herr Stresemann dwelt on the hopelessness of the situation so long as Germany was in danger of bleeding to death from the wounds of the Rhine and Ruhr. He declared that he would not consent to see German payments go to France's cashbook. "We have reached the end of our financial capacity," he announced the removal of the state of emergency from a number of districts, and declared that foreign financiers had offered the German Government credit for at least a million gold marks, provided the present Government remained in power. The speech was loudly applauded by the majority of deputies.

The debate was adjourned until tomorrow when the German National vote of censure will be taken.

PEKING, November 23rd.

It is announced that a working arrangement has been reached between the Peking Authorities and General Tang Tsai Li regarding the Railway Protection Bureau of which he (General Tang) is director.

It has now been decided that the Chiao Tungpu (Ministry of Communications) shall control the guards as far as their disposition and sundry other details are concerned.

General Wu Pei Fu has agreed to furnish one brigade of troops as additional guards, who will be stationed along the Kihnan railway, while General Wang Chen Ping will furnish a brigade for the Tsingpu line. General Tang Tsai Li will command the whole body, subject to reservations mentioned, and will report direct to the Cabinet.

The foregoing arrangement is said to be satisfactory, but there seems some possibility of friction in this divided command.

Delay, however, seems to have been overcome and there is a prospect of Tang Tsai Li proceeding with his task.

It is alleged that Shanghai is the headquarters for the traffic with agencies throughout the Far East. The Authorities have issued a warrant for the arrest of Captain Kearney, 'Commander-in-Chief of the Chekiang Navy,' who, it is alleged, carried out a large deal in arms with the Russian refugees under Admiral Stark. A further development took place today, culminating in the arrest of a journalist named Mrs. Stein and a well-known local baseball player named Maloney. They were charged with complicity in the traffic." The trial of Captain Kearney has aroused considerable interest in Treaty Ports.]

EARTHQUAKE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE.*LOAN ON DOMESTIC MARKET.

TOKYO, November 23rd.

Reconstruction estimates, which have received the final sanction of the Cabinet, closely approximate the figures cabled on November 18th. It is expected the amount necessary will be raised by a loan on the domestic market which, it is believed, will be able to finance this loan, according to a statement made by the Minister of Finance as reported by the morning newspapers.

If foreign loans are needed they will be issued only in order to preserve the balance of trade. "Such issue is considered unlikely during the next two or three years," the Minister added.

The cabled estimates do not include the amounts to be raised by Tokyo and Yokohama Municipal Bond issues, but includes the interest thereon. The Municipal issues for this purpose are estimated at Yen 173,000,000.

SIR JOHN SIMON, M.P., gave an address at the National Liberal Club on October 17th on "The Government's Preference Proposals."

Sir John Simon said Preference as practised in the Dominions was quite a different thing from Preference as it was recommended to be adopted in Great Britain. For the British Dominions, the new proposals meant the pulling down of a certain number of bricks from the top of a high wall with which their territory was enclosed. Undoubtedly that gave opportunities to British manufacturers which would not otherwise have been available; but that was quite a different operation from the one which the Mother Country was now asked to undertake—that of building a wall in order that there might be certain gaps in that wall through which British products might pass more freely. To the Dominions, Preference meant preference in a protected market; to Great Britain it meant the abandonment of a free market, the establishment of a Protectionist market, and then the modification of that market in the interests of certain selected suppliers. Preference, in Great Britain, would have the certain result of increasing prices to the very poorest of our population.

The new preference proposals fall grossly short of what was desired and hoped for by the supporters of that policy, but it would be a great mistake to pass them by as trifling or negligible. They involved this all-important admission, that it was not possible to go one step further along the road to Imperial Preference in Great Britain unless we were prepared to put additional taxes on food.

The British Empire had grown up on the liberal principle, that each self-governing community decided its finance for itself. There was not in Great Britain any party or section that was anti-Dominion, but if Preference was adopted, unpleasant, unfair and invidious calculations and comparisons would arise from the fact that this principle had been departed from. Again, it was impossible to enter into a system of preference without comparison arising between the contribution of one Dominion and the other to the Empire. It was essential that the unity of the Empire should not be undermined by the setting up of these difficult and complicated questions. (Cheers.)

LABOUR LEADER ON "ECONOMIC INSANITY."

Speaking at Easington, Durham, on October 17th, Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., criticized the Imperial preference proposals and said that what the Australian Prime Minister, Mr. Bruce, had asked for was the full programme of the Tariff Reformer. The suggested arrangement in regard to Empire grown sugar raised a serious issue of principle apart from its fiscal aspect.

What the Government proposed to do was to find Great Britain to maintain the existing preference of 1s. 3d. for a period of ten years. This was a guarantee that no Government was entitled to give, and on behalf of the Labour Party he declared that a pledge of this kind would not be held as binding on the Labour Government if it came into power within the period. The Labour Government would deal with all these questions and tariffs in its own way without regard to the action of its predecessors.

The proposal to impose a duty on foreign dried fruits not at present dutiable, in order to give Empire products of this kind a preference in our market, was a distinct violation of Mr. Bonar Law's pledge during the last General Election that the Parliament then being elected would make no fundamental change in the fiscal system of Great Britain. It was a tax on food imposed with a political object. There was no difference in principle between this duty and a duty on foreign wheat. It was protection pure and simple.

If we granted the demands of the Bradford manufacturers for a system of Imperial preference in the form of an export duty upon wool, what would be the effect upon the Lancashire cotton industry if the United States retaliated with a tax on cotton exports? We were told that the Bradford manufacturers must have protection against the cheaper French productions as a consequence of the fall in the franc. This cheap production was at the expense of the French workers, whose real wages were sinking with the decline in the purchasing power of the money they earned. But the French manufacturers' advantage was purely temporary, and the country could not indefinitely continue to stimulate its export trade from the depreciation of its currency.

The way to meet such an unstable condition was not by tariffs, but by a policy which aimed at the speedy restoration of normal economic conditions in Europe and the stabilization of European currencies. It was precisely the present condition of affairs which caused Mr. Bonar Law, though a staunch Tariff Reformer, to pledge himself against any change in our fiscal system.

The preference given to us in the tariffs of the Dominions had not increased the proportion of our exports to them, and the ratio of our Imperial to our foreign trade remained practically constant. The truth was that tariffs were an economic insanity, and were only tolerated because their real effects were concealed. For Great Britain, with an economic system based upon and intimately bound up with international freedom of trade, it would be positive madness to accept this system. It would destroy us by imposing upon our impoverished people a crushing burden beneath which they would sink.

MR. ASQUITH ON "AN ACT OF INDUSTRIAL SUICIDE."

MR. ASQUITH, addressing a demonstration at Perth, on October 12th, taunted the Government about what they called Imperial Preference, and described it as adding another storey to this "doll's house, this little, tiny, miniature working model of 'Protection.' (Laughter.)

Whether or not the additions, modifications, or transformations which had been laid before the Imperial Conference amounted to a violation of the electoral pledges of the present Government he did not know, but it was a matter worthy of further examination. (Cheers.) He, however, warned them not to treat this little adventure too lightly, because they would very soon see it was not merely a question of current buns and ruin puddings. (Laughter.) "A policy such as this would be an act of industrial suicide for Great Britain," said Mr. Asquith. "It would be a shallow fallacy to suppose that Imperial trade can only be developed by fiscal tinkering." (Laughter and cheers.) The Liberal policy is, as it has always been, to develop on the freest possible lines the mutual and reciprocal trade of the different members of the Empire." (Cheers.)

WRITING THE LAST CHAPTER OF THE EMPIRE.

Viscount Leverhulme alluded on October 12th to the proposal to increase the preferential tariff in favour of the Dominions. Speaking at the dinner of the London Commercial Travellers' Benevolent Society, he said that if we all produced to the utmost of our power under the conditions we now enjoyed of free trade Great Britain would again be placed in a paramount position, a position, he might say, of domination in the markets of the world.

With the one exception of coal, we had no raw materials to any great extent. If we were trying to trade with the Colonies we would have to find out from the Colonies what payment they would take for our goods. We could cloud the issue by talking about finding employment for the unemployed by migration to the Colonies, but if migration to the Colonies were followed by a fall in the world's demand for our manufactured goods, we should only be beginning a vicious circle. (Cheers.) We could not start on a career of reversing the policy which had made Great Britain successful. Every one of these fallacies was a boomerang, and, however much we wished the Lord of Empire strengthened, he was convinced they could never be strengthened on any other basis than that of brotherhood. (Cheers.) So long as we kept our doors open to the whole world, the whole world would welcome our produce. If we put these barriers round ourselves we would be writing the last chapter of the British Empire. (Cheers.)

LEISURE THE AIM OF LIFE.

Dr. Ernest Barker, Principal of King's College, London, in an address at St. Alban's Church, Wood-street, City, last month, said leisure for the workers was a necessary accompaniment of democracy. Recreation was rest from work; leisure was employment in work desirable for its own sake, and not as a means to an end—such as hearing poetry and noble music and the exercise of speculation and contemplation.

"In this fine sense," Dr. Barker said, "we may say that we live for leisure. It is the essence of our being, and transcends work. The sad thing about modern English society is that there is no leisure in this sense. It is not that we work so hard, but it is rather that we play so hard. One need not be a kill-hoy or a puritan to talk in this strain. You must have books; you must know something in order to know more. Blank ignorance is blank incuriousness. Education is really the preparation for life's leisure. Contemplation is the end at which to aim. We must, indeed, perform our social duties, but even that demands that we should retire into ourselves. The end of our lives is not doing things, but knowing things."

A new trend in drama has shown itself in a remarkable play from Czechoslovakia recently produced in London—"R.U.R."—by Karel Capek. The initials "R.U.R." (which have nothing to do with the Ruhr) stand for Rossum's Universal Robots, and the play is described as a fantastic melodrama. The fantasy, which is of a Wellesian type, concerns the invention by synthetic chemistry of a race of mechanical creatures made by man in his own image, able to labour and to fight, but possessing no feelings or emotions. Tragedy comes when the slave-machines, like Frankenstein's monster, turn upon their masters on an island and exterminate their creators, beginning with the scientist who made them. Only one man is kept alive; but he, they find, does not know the formula for manufacturing Robots, and, as they last only a certain time, they are faced with extinction, until finally two of the most perfect specimens, Radina and Helena, suddenly discover love. The book for the performance of this play by the local A.D.C. opens at Anderson's (opposite Wiseman's) on Tuesday next.

By a new system of refuse collection and disposal the Marylebone Borough Council during the year ending last March secured a profit of £14,200.

An average speed of 177.28 miles an hour was made by Lieut. David Rittenhouse, United States Navy, who won the Schneider Maritime Cup from England in the contest at Cowes.

WOMEN IN COUNCIL.
WARFARE AND DRINK.

It is twenty-one years since the National Council of Women of Great Britain and Ireland last met in Scotland's capital. Even as recently as that, as Lady Salvesen, the president of the Edinburgh branch, observed in welcoming the delegates, there were few subjects which it was seemly for women to discuss. Today there are few subjects, "seemly or otherwise, which women do not interest themselves in. Such is the progress of a generation towards the complete emancipation of womanhood. When the session of the conference opened in the Music Hall, George Street, on October 17th, delegates to the number of over 650, representing branches and affiliated societies in all parts of the country, were present.

Lady Frances Balfour, in her presidential address, said: The covenant of the home is neither read nor understood. Intemperance deteriorates our race, injures the child before and after birth, wrecks the home, and is the cause of most of our crime.

What a field women have to work in! Temperance is submerged by a glacial ocean, broken only by volcanic eruptions of prohibition and laws to make us sober. Can we not arise and work for the well-to-be as well as for the poor? The League of Nations? (Cheers.) The Press is cold to the cause of temperance, and covers it with cynicism and whitewash. The Church, in a large measure, supine and indifferent to it. Those two great causes, temperance, among ourselves and the League of Nations abroad, are derided with all the jeers and sneers that the powers of darkness can achieve against a great ideal. But there is nothing new under the sun. This has been the history of the emancipation of the slave, the freedom of the women, the charter of the children. When a fight was waged there have been drawn up against the cause all the forces which are always ranged against the side of the angels. America and Geneva are trying to emancipate mankind from warfare and the thralldom of drink. Both are noble experiments. How are we women meeting them? Do we go with the multitude who decry the efforts for peace? Do we join with the British company promoters to break down America's law for her own people? We must choose today, for assuredly this warfare will not be won without the worth and strength of the individual. (Cheers.)

The subject of the Conference was "The Child of the Children," and the first two resolutions taken were concerned with criminal assaults on young girls, and with the Guardianship, Maintenance, and Custody of Infants Bill. Both gave rise to considerable discussion, and in both cases resolutions were carried.

The need for rousing public opinion on the question was urged by Mrs. Edwin Gray, who complained that many women were deliberately shirking jury service. No one, she said, who had an opportunity of studying the work of women on juries could fail to be exceedingly disappointed with the results.

The shortage of houses and housing conditions generally are both questions in which women are vitally interested, and on this occasion Mrs. Arnold, on behalf of the Home Counties Standing Committee, moved a resolution urging branches to take part of their work in the coming year inquiry into housing conditions in their own localities. High costs and profiteering, she said, were preventing the arrears in houses being made up.

The Countess of Selborne gave as the principal reason for the shortage in houses the excessively high rates and taxes levied on property—higher in proportion than on any of the luxuries of life, with the possible exception of alcoholic liquor. At the Church Congress she noticed that a bishop denounced those people who wanted returns on houses. She could not understand that attitude of mind. We do not expect the bakers, green-grocers, or fishmongers to give us our food without making a profit on it, she declared, "and we cannot expect house-owners to do it either. Personally I do not think we shall get any solution until we can lighten the taxation on small houses. (Hear, hear.) The resolution was carried.

FAMILY LIFE IN SOVIET RUSSIA.

DECREASE IN DIVORCES.

"There is no such thing in Russian law as an illegitimate child," states Russian Information and Review, published by the Information Department of the Russian Trade Delegation. "Soviet family law is distinguished by two all-important features. The first and foremost is the care taken to safeguard the interests of the child. The right of the child to existence, to proper care and food, and, under proper circumstances, to direct support by its parents, is recognized, whether the child has been born in wedlock or not. Whether formally married or not, the parents are given rights over their children only in so far as such rights to the interest of the latter. If a parent in any way abuses such rights he is liable to be deprived of them altogether in a court of law."

The second important feature of Soviet family is the fact that the registration of a marriage, whether civil or ecclesiastical, confers no special rights on husband or wife. Marriage may be dissolved at any time without difficulty."

It is stated that the number of divorces that now occur in Russia does not exceed 5 to 10 per cent. of the registered marriages. "It is true that there was a period in 1918 when the number of divorces was actually greater than the number of marriages. But this only proved the number of unhappy marriages that had existed previously, which under the old laws had to be endured, and which the parties, at once dissolved when they were given the opportunity. To-day, on the other hand, with the establishment of normal conditions, divorce—though easy enough to obtain—is no longer of abnormal, frequent occurrence."

THE
FOR
RESIDENCE, FARMING, TRAVEL.

The Union of South Africa is of interest to Europeans in the Far East. If they are retiring on pension, there are many pleasant South African towns in which to live. If they seek a career, and have a moderate capital, there is scope in South Africa for planters and farmers. And for those in need of a holiday, the country is famed as a travel and health resort.

The climate is equable. It is sunny but temperate, being neither so inclement in winter as that of Northern Europe, nor so enervating in summer as that of the East. It is a genial, wholesome climate in which Europeans thrive.

The rougher work in South Africa is done by coloured labourers and domestics. Educational facilities are good, the young can now take their University degrees in South Africa. The larger towns are modernly equipped, and many of the smaller ones are very congenial residentially. There are numerous resorts—mountain, river and marine, for an occasional change. Sport is plentiful. The cost of living and income taxation compare favourably with those elsewhere.

In short the Union of South Africa is an uncommonly attractive country.

Full particulars may be obtained from the Publicity Agent, Office of the High Commissioner for the Union of South Africa, Trafalgar Square, London, W.C.2. Specify requirements.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

A brilliant humorist says that we are prone to make fun of the two most serious things that can happen to us—getting married and getting hanged! By the same token, we often speak seriously of pleasant things, and flippantly of the unpleasant. The man who is in really good health simply says: "I'm quite well, thank you," but the man who is not quite well, what does he say? Usually, he says he is "off the mark," "fed up," "out of sorts," "below par," "run-down." Or he says he "has the blues," or feels "done up." It is almost as though we were ashamed of being anything but quite well or right down ill.

Yet, at times, even the most fortunate amongst us feel not quite well. We have little spells when we are not so merry and bright as we ought to be. In the vast majority of such cases, we owe it to some slight derangement of the digestive system, some minor trouble of the stomach or liver, which may never become serious save by neglect. But even in the earliest stages, stomach and liver troubles are disagreeable. A good deal of pleasure seems to go out of life just as soon as we cease to enjoy our food, for after all, eating is one of life's simple pleasures. We cannot always trace the cause of our trouble. Indeed a dozen different things—connected with the weather, our work, or our mode of life—will upset our digestive system in a larger or lesser degree, with unpleasant consequences.

Sometimes, too, when the liver has been "tickled up," though we don't know why, it is not only unpleasant for us, but we are apt to make it unpleasant for other people. Irritability is often a direct evidence of liver trouble as biliousness or constipation. Lassitude and languor may be just as good indications of a disordered state of the stomach and liver as pains after eating or flatulence.

All these little troubles—which may be the forerunners of more serious ones—may be entirely avoided if you keep your stomach and liver in working order by the timely use of the herbal remedy, Mother Seigel's Syrup. This digestive tonic, which is made from the medicinal extracts of more than ten varieties of roots, barks and herbs, has a truly remarkable effect on the organs of digestion—the stomach, liver and bowels—toning and strengthening them so, that they are fully capable of performing their important functions, naturally and without strain.

When Mother Seigel's Syrup has restored these organs to a healthy state of activity, the miseries due to stomach and liver troubles are entirely avoided. Eating becomes a pleasure again, nor is it followed by flatulence or heartburn. Headaches, "liverishness" and constipation pass into the limbo of forgotten things and you enjoy new energy—new life. Put it to the test to-day.—E. 322.

ENGLAND BUILDS BATTLESHIPS.

ADMIRAL STURDEE'S DEFENCE.

Admiral Sir Doveton Sturdee, lecturing recently at the Royal United Service Institution on the importance of battleships and naval bases, urged the importance of the Singapore base. He pointed out that it was within the 110deg. Eastern limit purely drawn by the Washington Treaty. It was at the gateway to the Pacific, on the flank of our trade routes, and of vital necessity for the protection of our oil supplies from Persia, Burma, and Borneo.

The mind of the public had been confused as to the advisability of building battleships by letters in the newspapers stating that they were no longer of any use. But the point was whether Britain, so long as other sea Powers were constructing the so-called useless battleships, should abstain from building the number allowed by the Washington Treaty.

What was it that caused the German Fleet to keep so closely to its ports? Was it a fear of the submarine or of the Grand Fleet? Why were the German battle-cruisers, after bombarding unfortified towns, in such a hurry to retire to their ports? Was it not again the threat of the Grand Fleet? What would have happened to the Empire had Britain ceased to build battleships in 1914?

The battleship had a great record. It had enabled the Empire to be formed and defended, and it had maintained Great Britain free from invasion. It had proved itself the most powerful weapon of war effort and the most reliable. With all these great services to its credit, let all patriotic Britons beware before they abolished the battleship.

Anti-submarine measures were becoming increasingly more effective, and as the potency of the submarine increased so would the means of dealing with it develop.

NAVY'S NEED OF AIR SERVICE.

"A very distinguished committee has placed the Navy in the unfortunate position of having to say 'Can we use an aeroplane?' If the Navy wants an aeroplane the admiral has to get through to another department and say, 'Will you oblige me by going up into the air and doing so and so?' Some people have compared the new Air Force with the Marines, quite forgetting that the Marines belong to the Admiralty, while the Air Force belongs to another department.

"We must have an air service for the fleet without the necessity of telegraphing to the War-office and asking them to send an aeroplane up. One of the lessons of the war is that fleets served with reliable spotters can gain great initial advantage in gunfire, and that is the reason why the Navy must have the best trained observers, trained for the sea in fact, true seamen.

War in the future would be in three phases—surface, sub-surface, and the air. Cruisers were "as necessary as ever in Navy history. We must possess more cruisers than any other single Power in the world.

ROYAL AIR FORCE.

DOUBLING OUR POWER BY RECONSTRUCTION.

An important statement on the subject of the reconstruction of the Royal Air Force was made by Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for Air, at a meeting at Colchester, on October 17th.

"We want," he said, "to make the new Force as efficient as possible, but we also want to organise it as economically as possible. On the ground of economy, therefore, we are going to embody in it a substantial element of what I will call non-regular personnel."

It had been decided to create a home defence force of fifty-two squadrons, so organised as to make further expansion possible, if found necessary.

There would be three kind of squadrons, namely:

Special reserve and auxiliary squadrons for the less difficult work of bombing, composed of one-third Regular personnel and two-thirds reserve personnel obtained by the enlistment of skilled artisans, who will come up for short periods of training in the neighbourhood in which they live.

The result of the arrangements would be to give for the first time a substantial air force for home defence, with an increase of considerably less than 10,000 officers and men in the Royal Air Force. That was to say that it was hoped to double our air power with an addition of only one-third its present personnel.

INFLUENCE OF THE PRESS. CAMBRIDGE UNION DEBATE.

The Cambridge Union Society discussed on October 16th the motion, "That in the opinion of this house the influence of the Press on public opinion is increasing and is to be deplored." Among those who took part in the debate were Mr. G. K. Chesterton, Mr. H. Hamilton Fyfe, and Sir John Foster Fraser.

Mr. A. P. Marshall (Caius College), who proposed the motion, said it was the duty of the Press to preach righteousness, yet its power was being abused, and this watchdog of our liberties was now in a chronic state of rabies. (Laughter.) He denounced the vulgar sensationalism of some sections of the Press, the dictatorial attitude of other sections, and the poison gas emitted by some newspapers.

Mr. J. W. B. Sparrow (Trinity Hall), opposing, said he thought the people were tired of hearing the Press pelted with every kind of ignorant innuendo. The influence of the Press, he believed, had been used abominably for the benefit of mankind.

The motion was carried by a majority of 250, the figures being for the motion 237, against, 237.

THE MAGIC OF ZAM-BUK.

WONDERFUL HERBAL BALM SUPERSEDES FATTY OINTMENTS AND DRESSINGS.

Home treatment of skin diseases and injuries is completely revolutionised by the discovery of Zam-Buk. This unique balm is the product of years of scientific search for an ideal healer free from all dangers and limitations of oil and crude skin applications.

There is certainty of action in Zam-Buk because it derives its unique medicinal properties from Nature's rare curative herb. There is safety in its use because it is absolutely Free From Animal Fats and mineral poisons found in ordinary ointments, salves and so-called dressings. In addition, there is simplicity with Zam-Buk, in that it is always ready for immediate use at any moment.

Zam-Buk is almost magical in the way that it removes smarting pain, irritation and inflammation. It is so powerful and so penetrative that its action extends throughout the underlying tissues where it quickly finds out and destroys the germs of skin disease.

When the whole tissue has been thoroughly purified by Zam-Buk, other stimulative and healing agents contained within it, promote rapid growth of new healthy skin.

Zam-Buk, which is scientifically prepared under perfect hygienic conditions, has an unparalleled record of cures in thousands of cases of eczema, ringworm, itch, prickly heat, foot sores, abscesses, boils, pimples, bad legs, ulcers, piles, scalds, burns, heat sores and swellings and poisoned wounds. Its wonderful soothing and powerful antiseptic properties make Zam-Buk invaluable for treatment of the stings and bites of mosquitoes, leeches and scorpions and for cuts, burns, scalds, etc.

Chemists and medicine dealers throughout China, F.M.S., and The East, sell Zam-Buk. By post from Agents: Messrs. Wakefield & Co. (China), Ltd., 60, Kiangle Road, Shanghai.
